

Water quality protection note no. 75

August 2018

Gazetted public drinking water source areas

The Department of Water and Environmental Regulation (DWER) is responsible for managing and protecting Western Australian water resources. To protect the catchment and recharge areas of our drinking water reservoirs and bore fields, we gazette water reserves, catchment areas and underground water pollution control areas. Collectively, these are known as public drinking water source areas (PDWSAs).

PDWSAs are proclaimed under the Metropolitan Water Supply, Sewerage and Drainage Act 1909 (MWSSD Act) or the Country Areas Water Supply Act 1947 (CAWS Act). By-laws created under these statutes enable us to manage potentially polluting activities, regulate land use and inspect premises.

For more information on PDWSAs, see Strategic policy: Protecting public drinking water sources in WA and WQPN no. 25: Land use compatibility tables for public drinking water source areas.

Table 1 lists PDWSAs that are gazetted in Western Australia for the purpose of public drinking water supply. Figure 1 shows this in map form. This note will be updated regularly to capture changes including new proclamations, amendments or abolitions. A summary of PDWSA gazettal changes, since the last update of this note, is given after Table 1 and before Figure 1.

The Western Australian Government Gazette, available from the State Law Publisher (www.slp.wa.gov.au) should be consulted for a definitive and current list of gazetted PDWSAs. This document is intended to be a guide only and should not be used as a substitute for viewing the original proclamation notice.

Public drinking water source area maps can also be viewed online at www.dwer.wa.gov.au.

Drinking water source protection reports for each PDWSA are progressively prepared and reviewed. Some reports cover more than one PDWSA, for example, Serpentine Dam Catchment Area and Serpentine Pipehead Dam Catchment Area. Published reports are available at www.dwer.wa.gov.au. Reports include a map of the PDWSA and discuss important water source risk and protection information.

Standard information to be read in conjunction with this note can be found in WQPN no. 3: Using water quality protection notes. For general information about protecting water quality, see WQPN no. 8: Further reading.
